Haru Ga Kita

Spring is coming, Spring is coming, Where is spring now?

Here in the mountains, Here in the village, And here in the field.

Flowers bloom, Flowers bloom, Where do flowers bloom?

Here in the mountains, Here in the village, And here in the fields.

Birds are singing, Birds are singing, Where do birdies sing?

Here in the mountains, Here in the village, And here in the fields.

“Spring has come (Ha-ru ga ki-ta)” is a Japanese nursery rhyme that is still familiar among Americans of Japanese ancestry, particularly seniors.

The cold winter is over, the world changes color, and the joy of the long-awaited spring has come when we see the birds singing on the twigs. The season of spring itself is invisible, but it is a world that you can feel in your life.

It is said that there is almost nothing in Japanese culture that is not influenced by Buddhism. Even the lyrics of such nursery rhymes are no exception.

There are two constructive worlds in our world. A world that can be seen with our eyes and a world that cannot be seen. You can see buildings, television, and people, but you cannot see the air, people's hearts, affection, trust, and warmth.

In today's world, products for beauty and health are said to sell well. Certainly, things that can be seen with the eyes, such as the appearance of beauty and youth, are attracting attention; and conversely, the world that cannot be seen, such as enjoying senior life, wishing for the good sake of others, thinking a lot about humane conduct, etc. are becoming less visible.

Buddha taught us to value the invisible world as well as the visible world.

We know that we can't judge anything just by looking at it, but often we get stuck with our eyes only.

The beauty of a person's appearance is immediately recognizable, but the beauty of the person's interior is not visible. And because only the things that can be seen with the eyes are taken care of, the “world that cannot be seen” becomes less visible, then tragedy occurs.

If the “world that cannot be seen” disappears, the value of human beings will be measured by quantified data by the computer, and the individuality of each person is going to be treated as mere 'noise', and the end result will be homicide and war without hesitation. Because each irreplaceable life soon becomes worthless like a mere stone.

The Buddha taught that the visible world is surrounded and supported by the invisible world. This is a truth-reality that we, today, must recognize once again.

Shinran Shonin has fulfilled his life of practicing the Dharma with the Nenbutsu, “Namu-amita-ābha.”

One ought to know that there is no power in the Nenbutsu itself, though. Its power derives from Śākya-muni Buddha who recites the Nenbutsu, whose wisdom is already completed and whose compassion does not exclude any sentient being.

We don't need to seek for the light dependent on our small egos; that merciful wisdom contains the nature of boundless-light is already with us. And that boundless wisdom and compassion are manifested in the Nenbutsu, "Namu Amitabha," which is the work of 'Amitabha' of Shakyamuni Buddha.

The Nenbutsu of the True Self (=Buddhahood) is an incomparable Nenbutsu and an incomparable Dharma.

It can relieve all suffering. It is true. It is not mistaken that Shinran Shonin entrusted himself.

"However, if it is Nenbutsu as my act, it is not worth it, but it is wonderful value because it is working like real Buddha." The words said by the 'Kangaku' Venerable Takamatsu Gohō who led Shin Buddhism in 20th century Japan. He continues, “I'm just putting my hands together and saying Nann Mann Dah. Everything is the realization of Śākya-muni Buddha's amitābha, the work of immeasurable merciful wisdom and kindness.”

He concludes his saying in his 'Tanka' poem as follows:

"I can't see the Buddha in the voice,

but the voice itself is the Buddha.

Śākya-muni Buddha's amitābha becomes the voice of Nenbutsu,

changes its appearance to Namu-amita-ābha,

and comes back for me.”

We know the signs of spring through various phenomena. In the same way, if we truly realize the voice of Na-mu-a-mi-ta-bha by uttering it ourselves, we will know that the Buddha's final words, “A practicing follower is always close to me” is true. The Buddha is still untiringly caring and guiding us to the state of perfect peace and utmost bliss.

Spring Has Come. Spring Has Come.

I feel your touch and I can hear you sing.

Thankful for all the gifts that spring will bring.

Gifts from our ancestors and what they had seen and appreciated

Rev. Kaz Nakata

Hello, all Central California Sangha friends! Have you driven around Central California and our beautiful Blossom Trail? I recently drove Hwy99 to Southern Cal and enjoyed the layers of the white blossoms on both sides of the freeway from Fresno to Bakersfield. Flowers blooming reminds us that the nature of seasons is continuously moving forward, although many of us feel that time stopped in March of 2020. Let's keep moving forward!!!

On Nov 2, 2019, the Dinuba Buddhist Church concluded its history after a century of service in their local community. Last June, the Dinuba Onaijin (a complex of Buddhist altar furniture and the central object of reverence) was moved to the Fresno Betsuin Buddhist Temple, and it was enshrined as an Onaijin of the Fresno Betsuin Small Chapel. Since then, Rinban Nakagawa, Rev. Midori, and I have been fixing pieces of the furniture. Some photos of the restoration have been posted on our Twitter site, "Central California Nishi Hongwanji" or @Fresno_Nishi.

Originally the Dinuba Onaijin came from Japan and their sangha members conducted the Onaijin Installation Ceremony on Nov 20, 1927 (see picture below).

Many of Japanese American ancestry in Central California started their lives in Dinuba which was one of most active Buddhist communities of that period. Many of children in the picture are now about 100 years old. 2 years ago, one of my friends in the picture (a little girl with Kimono) passed away. Now we may have only a handful people who remember the activities at the Dinuba Buddhist Church in 1920's to 1930's. Since its installation ceremony, how many couples have exchanged wedding vows, how many families shared eulogies to express their appreciation to their loved ones, how many Dharma School Students have sung Gatha (Buddhist Song) loudly every Sunday in front of THE Onaijin? The Onaijin contains countless memories of generations of happiness and sadness.

When the Dinuba Onaijin was moved to Fresno, I inspected the Onaijin furniture, and I found metal pieces eroding and wood damaged by dehydration. The surface on the incense burner (Ko-ro) especially, lost all the gold-plated decorations. As one of my hobbies, I have become skilled at repairing gold decoration. I decided to restore the Incense burner to its original appearance, carefully applying 24k gold pigment on its decoration and revived it to its original color that Dinuba sangha members had seen in 1920's. Many old pictures are mono color prints, but their real life had color, like pink and red flower blossoms. I am sure that the Dinuba sangha members were so proud and appreciative to see the Incense Burner at the time of the installation. Now again, the Dinuba Incense Burners has a shiny gold appearance.

Nowadays, most materials in the world can be acquired by monetary exchange. I understand that sometimes (maybe often) the replacement of something is financially convenient than restoration. When we deeply contemplate on the universal truth of interdependent of life, we realize the essential value of the unique and historical artifact which is cared for and filled by the memories and sentiments of countless people's memories and sentiment. I hope all pioneers of the Dinuba Buddhist Church of the 1920's will be happy to see and hear that their legacy is certainly preserved, revived and respected at the Fresno Betsuin, so that their appreciation of Namo Amida Butsu will continue on... # Building Sangha Together: Nurturing Dharma-Centered Communities

Community has always been a strength of Shin Buddhism in America. Innovative and responsive community building grounded in the Dharma has enabled temples to thrive for more than a century. However, the traditional ways of building Sangha have been less effective as we face new challenges during this time of pandemic.

Rev. Blayne will explore what it means to be Sangha in today's world. How do we journey together as spiritual friends? And how can we nurture an authentic community of fellow travelers inspired by the Buddha's teachings? Participants will have an opportunity to cultivate Sangha through a facilitated group discussion. Bring your whole self as we learn and grow in the Dharma together.
